

UKCA/CE Mark Position Statement

The United Kingdom (UK) has left the European Union (EU27). The transition period after British Exit (Brexit) came to an end December 2020. This has an impact on conformity marking of goods, meaning that any product to be sold within the UK is required to transition to the UKCA mark from January 01, 2021. Products placed on the United Kingdom market from January 01, 2022 shall have the UKCA mark as required.

MKS Instruments, Inc. and its subsidiary products have determined that products in compliance for CE marking are deemed compliant for the UKCA marking. Products will show the UKCA mark co-located with the CE mark to ensure ease of movement through Europe.

United Kingdom committees are in the process of reviewing standards and updating British Standards (BS). MKS Instruments, Inc. is in compliance with the current directives and will align with the United Kingdom on compliance reporting to British Standards when required.
